 3. Activities in cold weather
 4. From Cathedrals to Monuments
 5. Seasonal Patterns
 6. A Taste of Russia in Harbin
- A. Harbin is the capital city of Heilongjiang Province, located in the northeastern part of China. It sits on the southern bank of the Songhua River and is the political, economic, and cultural centre of the region. The city is situated at a similar latitude to some of the coldest cities in Russia and Canada, and it lies close to the border with Russia, making it a key hub for Sino-Russian trade and cultural exchange.
- B. Harbin has a humid continental climate with extreme seasonal contrasts. Winters are notoriously long, freezing, and windy. Heavy snowfalls are common, and the city often experiences severe cold snaps. Summers are short, warm, and pleasant. The city is famous for its distinct “Ice City” atmosphere, with the annual Ice and Snow Festival brightening the dark winter months.
- C. A key historical landmark is the Saint Sophia Cathedral, a magnificent Russian-Byzantine style church built in 1907, which now serves as a museum of architecture and art. Another significant site is the Central Street, a historic pedestrian street paved with unique cobblestones. Additionally, the Flood Control Monument, built in 1958, commemorates the city’s fight against destructive Songhua River floods.
- D. During freezing winters, Harbin transforms into a magical ice kingdom. The most famous activity is visiting the annual Ice and Snow World, where you can admire massive, illuminated ice sculptures and glide down ice slides. Visitors can also enjoy skiing and snowboarding at the nearby Yabuli Ski Resort. For a unique cultural experience, many tourists enjoy a dog-sled ride across the snowy riverbanks.
- E. Harbin is renowned for its hearty, Russian-influenced cuisine. The most iconic dish is Harbin Smoked Sausage (Hongchang), a reddish, garlicky pork sausage with a smoky flavour. Another favourite is the local version of the Russian bread, “Lieba” – a large, slightly sour, dark brown bread that is perfect for winter.

A Great Day at the Zoo

Tom and Emma are cousins who live in the same city. They both love animals and enjoy spending weekends outdoors. One warm Sunday morning, they decided to visit the city zoo. They had heard that some new baby animals had arrived, and they were very curious to see them. Both of them were looking forward to a fun and interesting day.

Tom woke up early and packed a small bag with water, some sandwiches, and his camera. He put on his comfortable blue shorts and a white cap to protect himself from the sun. At the same time, Emma prepared her own bag with sunscreen and a notebook. She put on a light summer dress and her favourite sports shoes. They planned to meet at the zoo entrance at 9:30 a.m.

When they arrived, the zoo was already full of families and children. The first place they visited was the monkey house. The monkeys were jumping and playing, which made everyone laugh. Tom took many photos with his camera, and Emma wrote down interesting things about their behaviour.

Emma said, "I think they're my favourite animals. Let's stay here for a few more minutes."

After watching the monkeys, they walked to the reptile area. Emma was a little scared of snakes, but Tom encouraged her to look. They saw a big green snake resting on a branch. "It's not so scary," Tom said. "It's actually beautiful."

Next, they went to see the new baby giraffe. It was very tall, even though it was just a few weeks old. "This is amazing!" Emma said. "I've never seen a baby giraffe before."

After visiting several animal enclosures, they felt hungry and tired. They found a nice bench near the lake and sat down to eat their sandwiches and drink some water. While they were eating, they watched the ducks swimming in the water and talked about all the animals they had seen.

After their break, they visited the gift shop. Tom bought a small toy monkey for his little brother, and Emma bought a book about zoo animals. By the afternoon, they were tired but very happy. They left the zoo with wonderful memories and promised to come back again soon.
